Meet our Interns

Advanced Superabrasives Inc.

Rylan Schanbacher is 17 years old and currently attends Madison Early College High School in Mars Hill, NC. In pursuit of gaining experience for his future, he is joining the Advanced Superabrasives' workforce this summer completing an internship. During this internship he will learn many aspects of the manufacturing field and gain hands on experience to lead to his success in the future. Upon beginning this internship, Rylan is very excited but does not know exactly what all to expect but is eager to learn as much as possible and get experience for college and the workforce. He is very interested in engineering and wants to pursue a degree and career in the mechanical engineering field. He enjoys building things and putting things together and is currently making a gun of his own from just a block of wood and metal! He's looking forward to learning new things and all about the machines in the shop and ASI is glad to be a part of creating futures for students

Noah Franklin is 16 years old and is currently attending Madison High School in Marshall, NC. He's looking to learn a lot of new things and see what all there is to offer here at Advanced Superabrasives this summer completing our internship program. He is still leaving his options open for the future and hasn't decided exactly what he wants to do but manufacturing or engineering could be a possibility. Currently in his free time, Noah enjoys working on cars and working at the fire department. He is excited to gain knowledge and acquire skills that will prepare him for the workforce in the future and explore options early rather than later. After being here for just two days, Noah already predicts that his favorite part of this summer internship will be the people working here at ASI!

I am Courtney Eudy and will be a senior this fall at NC State University in Raleigh, NC. I am majoring in Animal Science with a minor in Agribusiness Management. I have grown up in the agricultural industry raising and showing Hereford and Limousin beef cattle farm. I am currently completing a Marketing and Social Media internship through the NC Small Business and Technology Development Center (SBTDC) here at Advanced Superabrasives this summer. I am looking to gain more marketing skills and learn more about business life to gain skills and knowledge that will enhance my career. My goal for this internship is to learn and gain more skills while helping ASI become more up to date on social media and the web to reach the next set of potential customers and employees. I work with people from the SBTDC to gain insight and direction along with people here. My passion lies with the agriculture industry but want to elaborate on my agribusiness and marketing skills for the future to bring back to the farm and for a career. I am eager to learn all that I can and have enjoyed my time here at Advanced Superabrasives so far. The people and the environment is great and easy to get along with!
